A PLEDGE OF COMPLIANCE

Re: cessation of electric-vehicle charging at 1 West Oak Street

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:

As some of you may know, I (Jordan Eccles, one of two adults who live in this house) am a member of Alexandria's Environmental Policy Commission. In fact, I am its Vice Chair. I have been reminded that members of this commission sign a code of conduct pledging that they won't break the law. If I continue breaking the law by charging my car using a cable across the sidewalk, I will sadly have to resign.

I care a lot about environmental policy and would like to continue in this role. As you can see at CurbsideALX.com, I think Alexandria residents can and should be involved in city policy and can make a difference. I therefore pledge that I will not commit the dastardly act of putting a cord in a cable protector across the sidewalk until the city makes this legal. Video surveillance will confirm that I, Jordan Eccles, will not plug in the car. I will further tally my own use of the vehicle and use other chargers to provide the energy for these miles traveled.

This will also be a fun research project to see how much this actually sucks! I look forward to driving to Springfield and sitting in a parking lot. I'm sure my wife will enjoy taking care of our kids while I do this.

Signed with regret,

If you think this is silly, go to CurbsideALX.com and tell Alexandria City Council to make some changes!

*note: I am one of two users of this car. I bike to work and use the car on weekends for shopping. I will recommend to the other user that they also follow the law. I am not in charge of the other user of the car; in fact, I am primarily support for her, as she is the household manager.
